Jasper Morrison's boardroom table for the gods

Spiralling staircases to conjugal bliss

A heavenly breakfast in bed

Dwarf stars and fizzling comets: a year of design duds

A big-banging and gently twinkling constellation of standout star turns and synapse-tingling supernovas

The universally coveted

A fine line-up of geometric pieces

Wallpaper* is particularly alert to displays of geometric rigour. So we were drawn to Minimalux's first foray into furnishings, which includes this precisely composed bookshelf made of 33 interlocking metal bars. Milanese architect Vincenzo De Cotiis took the graphic theme a step further with his 'DC1406' lamp, which at first glance may seem like a random composition, but on closer inspection reveals a meticulous geometry of gridded metal panels. Scholten & Baijings' table collection saw the duo's signature graphic patterns subtly engraved on Carrara marble. Meanwhile, Stefan Diez's chair for Emu and Claesson Koivisto Rune's wallpaper offer a classic interpretation of the geometric theme in 3D and 2D respectively. ★
