4 'PEG' MIRROR

by Nendo

We often marvel at Nendo's smart but simple design tricks. This year the studio expanded its 2013 'Peg' collection, in which structures and surfaces are placed in conversation with each other as chair and table legs extend discreetly upwards into seats and tabletops. True to form, the 'Peg' mirror features a small hole that reveals a detail of its ash stand.

4 'MOVE' ROCKING CHAIR

by Rossella Pugliatti

Rossella Pugliatti's reinvention of the rocking chair for Giorgetti is in equal parts ambitious and delightful. In her sinuous design, two interlocking wooden structures combine to form the seat and the rocking base. Made of 30 pieces of solid ash, the chair is available in three finishes: natural, anthracite grey and walnut painted.

4 'JOY' BED

by Claesson Koivisto Rune

Swedish architecture and design practice Claesson Koivisto Rune's penchant for curves is put to the test in this bed for Arflex. 'Joy' balances rigorous lines with sensual curves. The wooden base appears to float, thanks to the almost invisible metal feet, while the backrest features a crescent of padding. Finishes include wenge and oak stains and black and white lacquered versions. 'Joy' bed, €4,815, by Claesson Koivisto Rune, for Arflex, www.arflex.it

4 'DC1409' SCONCE

by Vincenzo De Cotiis

As well as presenting a host of new designs this year (including a coffee table for Wallpaper* Handmade - see next issue), architect Vincenzo De Cotiis has opened a second space in Milan, a large gallery that will showcase his Progetto Domestico limited-edition furniture collections. This sconce caught our eye, softly diffusing light with its different weights of mesh.
